Cindy Fedell

Regional Chief Information Officer, Northwestern Ontario Hospitals

Cindy is the Regional Chief Information Officer for the Northwestern Ontario hospitals, recently returning to her hometown of Thunder Bay. She is currently driving the advancement of digital health here.

Previously, as the Executive Chief Digital and Information Officer at her last hospital, she was responsible for bringing the hospital from one of the lowest ranking to a top 10 digital hospital in England, implementing both a full-scale electronic patient record and an AI-driven command centre. She was also responsible for setting up the regional radiology reporting service and for digital transformation for the region.

She has been a frequent speaker at many international conferences on transformation through digital health. Cindy also oversaw one of the first implementations of online medication ordering in Canada during her time at Mount Sinai.
